

ABSTRACT

At least one dimmer device is provided at the spacing between abutted light sources to allow lights diffused from both sides
5 of the light sources to be properly refracted and reflect to further evenly diffuse toward a diffuser plate thus to eliminate the dark band between abutted light sources for effectively solving the significantly present bright band and dark band of the LCD module observed with the prior art.

10